Hershey resident is named a Hero of Emergency Medicine

James Holliman, M.D., F.A.C.E.P., professor of emergency medicine, Penn State Hershey College of Medicine, was recently recognized by the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP) as a "Hero of Emergency Medicine." The campaign, which is part of ACEP's 40th anniversary, recognizes emergency medicine physicians who have made significant contributions to emergency medicine, their communities and their patients.

Holliman was recognized for his "Iraq Medical Specialty Development Project," which introduced the specialty of emergency medicine to Iraq.

"Jim has made many valuable contributions to the international development of emergency medicine as a Penn State College of Medicine faculty member," said Dr. Thomas Terndrup, M.D., chair, department of emergency medicine, Penn State Hershey Medical Center. "We hope for his safe return upon the completion of his service."

Holliman, a faculty member at Penn State Hershey College of Medicine, is on a leave of absence while serving as the program manager for the Afghanistan Health Care Sector Reconstruction Project for the Maryland-based Center for Disaster and

Scout earns Eagle award

A Boy Scout Eagle Court of Honor was held Sunday, Dec. 2, 2007 for Peter David Nettekoven of Troop 203. Peter is the son of David and Nancy Nettekoven of Hershey. Troop 203 is sponsored by the First United Methodist Church which is part of the Keystone Area Boys Scouts of America.

Peter joined Troop 203 four years ago. During that time he has progressed from Tenderfoot to Eagle Scout, earning 31 merit badges in the process. His leadership positions in the troop have included instructor, patrol leader, and senior patrol leader. He is an ordeal member of the Order of the Arrow, the Boy Scout Honor camping organization. He has earned a Bronze Palm and is currently working toward earning a Gold and Silver Palm.

His Eagle project was to design and build a three-sided wood structure for storing firewood at the south campus picnic area of the Evangelical Free Church for use of the church members.

Peter was home schooled through the eighth grade and is attending Hershey High School in the ninth grade. He made honor his first year. He has participated in several running sports at Hershey High: cross-country, indoor track, and outdoor track and field. He earned a varsity letter in cross-country this fall. He was the fourth on the varsity team and the top underclassman on the team. Peter is also a member of the chorus and the First Priority Club at Hershey High.

He is an active member of the Evangelical Free Church of Hershey youth group. He is a member of the Worship Team and participates in an accountability group for teens and young adults. He has gone on mission trips to Harrisburg, New Orleans for Katrina relief, and to various parts of the world for various kinds of ministry. He has been active in the Youth While involved with the Hershey Free Church Home School Cooperative, he participated in the Hands and Feet Ministry to the residents of Hershey Plaza.

He has a part-time job at the Hershey Pantry as a dishwasher and hopes to attend one of the military academies in the future.

Holliman, a faculty member at Penn State Hershey College of Medicine, is on a leave of absence while serving as the program manager for the Afghanistan Health Care Sector Reconstruction Project for the Maryland-based Center for Disaster and Humanitarian Assistance Medicine of the Uniformed Services, University of the Health Sciences where he helps coordinate health care reconstruction efforts in war-ravaged Afghanistan. Holliman joined the program one year ago.

"Emergency physicians are on the front lines of America's health care system, providing the essential community service of emergency care," says ACEP president Linda L. Lawrence, M.D. "The dedication, passion and commitment Dr. Holliman has shown embody the vision of ACEP's founders and the ideals of our specialty."

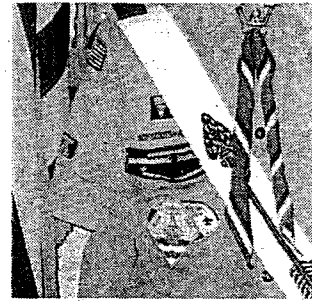

For nearly 20 years, Holliman has been extensively involved with international emergency medicine development, including in West Bank, Israel and Iraq. A founding member of the ACEP international section, he has mentored numerous students, residents and attending physicians from both the U.S. and abroad. Holliman has published numerous manuscripts that provide background structure for international emergency medicine development efforts, and has authored five emergency medicine textbooks used as training texts in other countries. His trauma course has been adopted as the standard national emergency medicine trauma training course in five countries. Holliman has traveled extensively to other countries, often at his own expense, to provide training courses and emergency medicine residency development consultations.

While not overseas, Holliman resides in Hershey with his wife Karen.
