THE HOLLIMAN FAMILY CHART #

#

The preceding pages are of particular interest #

to all descendants of Cornelius Holliman (05H01), #

Warren Holliman (05H02), and Charles Holliman #

(05H03). The connections between these Hollimans #

and their father James Grantson Holliman (04H11) #

has been the subject of much investigation. #

Likewise, the connection between James Grantson #

Holliman and his father Jesse Holleman (03H02) #

has received considerable scrutiny. #

It should be noted that these connections are not # # without question. However, with "new" information #

being uncovered ever so slowly we may be approach- #

ing the limits of our knowledge and resources. It # # is therefore important to put in print what we # # have thus far learned so it can be shared by all # # the Holliman kinfolk. Where future revisions are # # necessary they will be made. Hopefully, interest #

will be generated by this work that will result #

in it being up dated as future generations are # # added. This our heritage we pass along to our # # children and they to their children so that all #

will know. #

Better knowledge we may not find until we meet #

our "Maker and Master" in another world. #

Descendants of Cornelius Holliman (05H01):

06H02 URIAH H. HOLLIMAN - b. 1817 in South Carolina
d. 1862 in Okolona, Mississippi, while in the service of CSA. After the Battle of Shiloh a Confederate hospital was operated near Okolona for several months.
Uriah and son Charles Daniel Holliman were hospitalized there for measles and both later died of pneumonia. They are buried in a nearby Confederate cemetery that has mostly "unknown dead" grave markers. Received a Land Grant in 1857 near Bluff, Alabama.

m. Mary Polly Lucas - born January 2, 1819 in S.C., m. August 29, 1836 - d. July 6, 1913. Buried in Springhill Church Cemetery near Bluff, Alabama.
A tombstone with the epitaph, "Pioneer Strength, Integrity, Human Kindness," marks the grave of Mary Lucas Holliman. She was fondly known as "Aunt Polly." During the illness of her son Dan and husband Uriah she traveled by horse and wagon from her home near Bluff, in Fayette Co., Ala., to the Confederate Hospital at Okolona, Mississippi to nurse them during their last days of illness and remained to bury them. She then drove home alone while suffering from the measles. She was a brave and resourceful woman. "Aunt Polly" was known far and wide as a practical nurse that was skilled in the use of native herbs, and was a noted midwife in her home area. A large number of the children born in her community during the war years and after were brought into this world by her. She made a standard charge of $ 5.00 for which she handled the entire details of child birth delivery and waited on the mother and child for one week, cooking for the balance of the family. She made her "house calls" on her white mule with side-saddle, tending to the sick and afflicted as well. She was the daughter of Charles Daniel Lucas, an early settler at Newtonville, Ala. (circa 1820s).

Mary Polly Lucas Holliman (aka Aunt Polly) presided at the birth, and delivered five of the six sons of her son John Thomas Holliman. The sole exception being the youngest son, Ulysses S.
Holliman.
