AGNES BERNADINE SITTING

In 1619, a year marked by several important events in the Colony, including the assembling of the first General Assembly, the London Company adopted a "Cote for Virginia". The coat-of-arms has been a puzzle and source of speculation to every historian and has been sometimes confused with the proper seal of the Colony itself. It is found as a book plate or frontispiece in nearly all of the printed acts and official proceedings of the Colonial government. It appears in Smith's Generall Historie of Virginia, editions 1624 and 1632; in Beverley's History of Virginia, in several issues of the Virginia Gazette, and in Stow's Survey of London, published in 1633. It was changed slightly from time to time to make the quarterings agree with the arms of the different reigning houses, and after the union of England and Scotland "quartam" succeeded "quintum" in the motto. The illustration is from the title page of Merchants of Virginia in the Virginia State Library.

LINEAGE THROUGH JAMES NEALE OF WOLLESTON MANOR

The peninsula between the Wicomico and Potomac Rivers was the site of WOLLESTON MANOR, which consisted of two thousand acres and was granted to Captain James Neale in 1641 or 1642. Captain Neale had come from London in 1636 and was a member of the Provincial Assembly of the Governor's Council and was a Commissioner of His Lordship's Treasury. He married Anne Gill, dau—of Benjamin Gill, and together they returned to Europe, where they remained for fourteen years. During this time Neale spent long periods in Spain and Portugal as the personal representative of King Charles I and the Duke of York.

The intimacy between the Neales and the English royal family was further accentuated by the fact that Madame Neale became a Lady-in-Waiting to Queen Henrietta Maria and Her Majesty in turn stood as god-mother to her namesake, Henrietta Maria Neale. The Neales returned to the Potomac in 1660, bringing with them their five children—Henrietta Maria, James, Dorothy, Anthony and Jane, all born in Europe. These young people soon attracted the attention of the eligible young people of the great families of both Md. and Va., and made distinguished marriages. Henrietta Maria Neale m—Richard Bennett first and after his death by drowning, she married Philemon Lloyd of WYE HOUSE on the Eastern Shore of Md. Dorothy Neale became the wife of Roger Brooke of DE LA BROOKE MANOR on the Patuxent. Anthony married first Elizabeth Roswell and second Elizabeth, dau—of Col. William Digges; this lineage is through Knott intermarriage and Blackstone, to Alice Norris Parran. Jane married William Boarman, whose dau— married Wm. Dent, through whom descent to Alice Norris Parran. James Neale, Jr., the eldest son, married Elisabeth Calvert, niece of Lord Baltimore, and WOLLESTON MANOR descended in his line.

Captain James Neale was a man of great ability and demonstrated his capacity for official business by performing many services for the Governor, by serving as a member of the Assembly, as a member of the Governor's Council, and as Commissioner of His Lordship's Treasury. With his wife, Anne Gill, he returned to Eng., where for fourteen years he represented the King and the Duke of York on many important missions. The Neales were favorites with royalty and tradition relates that Madam Neale was a maid of honor to Queen Henrietta Maria, who acted as godmother to young Henrietta Maria Neale. Five children made distinguished intermarriages into the families of Bennet, Lloyd, Knott, Brooke, Digges, Boarman and Scarborough.
